

Posted on: October 28, 2015

Village of Orland Park Unveils Free Phone App

The Village of Orland Park has debuted its latest means of public communication --- the village's free phone app.

An essential guide to all things Orland Park, the village's app shows what to see, where to eat and what to do in Orland Park. Subscribers have access to community events, retailers, road updates, restaurants, local officials and more.

"We are very excited with the village's free phone app," said Mayor Dan McLaughlin. "It offers access to a lot of information about the village all in one place."

Residents can submit requests for street and neighborhood concerns directly through the app that also includes a complete directory of retailers and restaurants with phone numbers and locations.

Categories include village information, recreation, events, building and road updates, requests and permits, local services, shopping, dining and a link to the village's civic engagement program, In Our Community.

"Orland Park does all that it can to increase civic engagement and bring village information to the public," said Trustee Jim Dodge, chair of the Economic Development Strategy and Community Engagement Committee. "This is a great resource not only for residents but for people who work in or visit Orland Park. You can find restaurants, stores, upcoming events and more."

Compatible with Android and iPhone, Orland Park's app also works on iPad and iPod touch. It can be downloaded for free from the iTunes App Store and the Google Play Store by searching for Village of Orland Park.

McLaughlin added, "This is a great tool and we invite everyone to use it. You can find pretty much everything you need to know about Orland Park all in one place."